SILOAM

2024 Program for the Formation of Spiritual Directors

Full-time: 1 Year, on campus

Part-time: 2 Years, on campus or online

Applications close: 15/10/23

To enliven the divine spark in people's hearts through contemplative formation

The Siloam Program for the Formation of Spiritual Directors mirrors the movement identified in John 9:7. It is with the opening of the eyes of our heart and of our whole being, that we are able to embrace a new 'vision', a new mission, and a new vocation in the ministry of Spiritual Direction.

We thirst to live our life authentically, we long for the freedom to choose to be our true self and to know wholeheartedly that the sacred Mystery is entwined in such desires. Like washing in the Pool of Siloam, the Siloam Program opens our eyes and supports our transformation, freeing us to let go of ways of being that are no longer life-giving.

The focus in Siloam is on being attuned to the Spirit of God in ourselves and in the other person. The practice is to offer a compassionate, contemplative, listening heart to another in the ancient tradition of Spiritual Direction. The direction we speak of is towards God and our true freedom.

In Spiritual Direction, the caring presence of another moves us to a freedom to speak about whatever is deep within our heart, and in doing so, be valued and encouraged. We all long to be listened to and validated.

Siloam, in practice and in its study components, is based on experiential learning. Our lived history, our relationship with the Holy, our place in family and community, our desires and vulnerability make us who we are.

Aim

The Siloam Program is concerned with the formation of competent, experienced spiritual directors. The lecturers and supervisors at Heart of Life foster a discerning, contemplative approach whereby spiritual directors-in-formation become more and more attuned to the movement of God's Spirit in themselves and in their directees.

Siloam Program

Siloam is recognised by the Australian Ecumenical Council for Spiritual Direction as meeting its standards for the formation of spiritual directors in Australia.

Siloam's approach to formation is soundly experiential and is based on solid theological, biblical and social sciences theory and praxis. A discerning, contemplative attitude is integral to all seminars and practical work.

Regular reflection, prayer time and a commitment to one's own spiritual direction are essential to the program.

Siloam participants and staff form a faith community. The compulsory Orientation and Reflection Weekends are held during the Siloam Program to pray as a community, to share faith and to reflect on ministry.

On successful completion of the Siloam

Program, students receive a certificate in Spiritual Direction from Heart of Life.

Graduate Diploma in Spiritual Direction

Students who meet the 'previous Degree' and other criteria, may undertake the Siloam Program as a Graduate Diploma in Spiritual Direction (GDSD). The content is the same as the Siloam Program. Enrolment is made through Yarra Theological Union (YTU) after an Offer of a Place, and on successful completion of the program, the GDSD is awarded by the University of Divinity.

Students applying to study the GDSD must provide YTU with the original or certified copies of relevant transcripts.

Application Process

Please complete the SILOAM application form at www.heartoflife.melbourne and include an autobiography following the guidelines.

The Siloam formation groups consist of a small number of participants each year, providing the best environment for the course praxis in particular. For this reason, and because of the level of interest in the program each year, a $500 application fee is payable when candidates apply, which is later deducted from the course fees. The application fee holds a potential seat in the program until a formal Offer of a Place is made. (The $500 fee is refundable if an Offer of a Place is not made.)

Applications for the 2024 Siloam Program close on 15 October 2023.

Graduate Diploma students must apply to YTU - after being offered a place in Siloam - by 15 November 2023.
